TENNESSEE LEGISLATURE - THE MEMPH citizens of Memphis were to bold a meeting at the Mayor's office on Saturday evening last to now before the Legislature of Tennessee that construction of the Memphis and Little Rock railroad. At a public meeting held in Memphison the night of the preceding Wednesday. speeches were made upon the subject by several gentlemen, and a committee of two trom each ward was appointed to draft a preamble and esolutions to be reported to the general m et ing on Saturday night. Although a bill for the Pungatont .- A gentleman, who seems to be endorsement of the Memphis honds failed a a sincere inquirer after truth, addresses to us by ouple of weeks ago in the Tennessee House of letter several questions as to the Roman Catho-Representatives, strong confidence is felt at lic purgatory. He wishes to know how long a Memphis, and, we may add, at Nashville, that the hill will, before the adjournment, he recouwe are confident of such a result, for we have been a witness of the deliberations of the money that his relatives and friends are willing

We are not prepared to believe that such would have to stay in a very long while. If gentlemen as now compose the Tennessee they were to pay a hundred, he would get out a Senate and House of Representatives can be great deal sooner. If they should fork over a blind enough to the great requirements of their thousand, he would come so quick out of the State as to refuse to adopt a measure of so vital fire into the cool air that he would be very like-Importance as the endorsement of the bonds of Memphis to the Memphis and Little Rock Rallroad Company. We were a little apprebens at one time that each of the two political part in the Legislature might be afraid or reluctate to support the hill from the fear that the or posite party might gain some partizan adva ge by raising an outcry against the act. surely no such fear can now exist in the mind of either party, for the newspaper organs of both parties in the city of Nashville have argue and conclusively shown that the State Memphis bonds, incur the slightest risk of th loss of a dollar, and it is not a supposable of that any party would be silly enough to raise clamor against an endorsement acknowledged by its own organs to involve no risk of pecuniary than of war, but Miss Reedy sings sweetly up

All of the members of the Tennessee Legisla ture, we are informed, know and admit that the endorsement of the Memphis bonds would no expose the State to even the remotest possibili ty of loss, so that the only question for them to consider is, whether they will make the Memphi bonds saleable in the New York market who can do so by a word and without the ris of a farthing-whether, in other words, the a railroad between the commercial emporium Tennessee and the capital and cen're of Aska sas when they can do it hy basely uttering to t world the unquestionable truth that Mempl is good for her obligations. The con tion of the great Pacific railroad through Texa at a day no' far off is even more certain no than it was a few weeks ago when the Mempl bonds bill was discussed in the Tennessee 1, re, and of course no one can doubt the ought to Memphis by the Memphis and Little Rock road, where it would meet and unite wit the termini of all the important railroads Tennessee, for which that State has paid to thousand dollars per mile. And, as we have said before, a junction of the great Pacific rail-roal with the Tennessee railroads would infold or even more, so that there is every probability, nay an almost absolute certainty, that Tennessee, by now doing an act, by which she wouldn't incur the slightest responsibility, would that her deliberate refusal to act in such a case would be one of the strangest phenomena in the history of the action or the inaction of States.

It being now fully conceded by every candi and we l-informed man in the Tennessee Levu dorsing the bonds, the only objection, we less that is now dwelt on by the opponents of the bill, is that it would be a dangerous precedentthat other cities in Tennessee and some of the counties would ask the S ate to endorse their railroad bonds. But it has been shown fifty times over that there neither would nor could he any precedent whatever in the case. No endorsement of bonds will be asked for an such object as bringing the great Pacific rail-road, with the commerce and travel of half the world, through her own borders. And at any rate the whole matter of precedent is put enirely out of the question by one const Every advocate of the endorsement bill in the Tennessee Legislature has declared unequivocally and over and over again that he gives bis support to the bill upon grounds that utterly eclude and exclude all idea of precedent, and tinctly upon such grounds. All the cities will understand, all the counties will understand, the whole State will understand, beyond the possibility of mistake, that the endorsement of the very strong expectation that Tennessee will Americans throughout Meade county will be at avail herself of this rare and glorious opportunity of obtaining, without money and without throughout their borders. It is already circulation nity of obtaining, without money and without price, what other States are struggling to obtain price, which other States are struggling to obtain for the meelves and what they would gladly exbecause she has direct and immediate relations with Kentucky, and because, with the exception of Kentucky, she supports the Louisville Jour-nal more mumficen'ly than any other State of

MEETING OF THE AMERICAN MEMBERS OF THE KENTUCKY LIGISLATURE—THE COURSIDET THE AMERICAN REPRESENTATIVES IN CONCRESS ENDOSEED.—With more pleasure than we can express, we lay before our readers the sub-olined resolutions, unanimously adopted by the American members of the Kentucky Legislature in full meeting. They are words of wisdom and patriotism, well and timely spoken. They will cheer the hearts and strengthen the hands of the patriotic band of National Americans in Congress, who stand upon the only true nations. Farm for Sale

At a meeting of the American members of the Legislature of Kentucky, held in the hall of the House of Representatives, at Frankfort, on the 4th day of January, t.550, the following resolutions were manimously adopted:

Resotred, That the protracted delay in organizing the House of Representatives in Congressivative that the protracted delay in organizing the House of Representatives in Congressivative that the protracted delay in organizing the House of Representatives in Congressivative that the constitution of the cons resover, the House of Representatives in Congress is attributable to an effort of the so-called Republican and Democratic parties to make political capital out of the slavety agitation.

Resolved, That the American party stands on the true conservative ground, distinctly marked out by the Philadelphia Platform, and on that the battle against sectionalism ought to be fought and can be won.

Resolved. That the people of Keutucky heartly approve the course of their Representatives in Congress (belonging to the American party), and of the patriotic near acting with them in the contest for Speaker. And we extrestly counsel them to persevere, without yielding or modifying their position; and lo leave the responsibility of delay or disaster from not co-operating, to rest out those who causelessly refuse to co-operate in bringing this contest to a satisfactory conclusion.

erfully exciting that, to many of the audience, it was a relief to see the curtain descend at the close of the act.

Mus Louise Pyne's "Amina" was, as we had atticipated, an admirable embodiment of the character. The solo is the first act, "Oh! Love for Me thy Power," fell with the silvery tones of this sweet singer, upon the hearts of the audience as the sweetest interpretation of the poetic feeling of the geutle Bellini. Her triuph, however, was in the "finale" of the opera, when, as the comnamibulist, she breathed forther sorrow in auch subdued and touching melicity, in the awakening, and finally in the "Ahl non Giunge," that outburst of passionate happiness.

Mr. Horncastle was excellent as "Alleesio;" and Mise Pyne, in the character of Lisa, sung very effectively the solo of "Lands and Joyful."

Mr. Stretton, as "Rodolpho," was in excellent voice, but there was a want of feeling in the resedering of "As I View Now," which saily marred the effect.

We regret that an imperative engagement at New Orleans prevented this fine troupe from extending their stay with us to another week, but hope that on their return from their Southern tour they will give us an opportunity of again bearing a good English opera.

Mise Eloise Bridges appears at the theater to-night in the play of Evadare.
